THE FOUNDERS OF HIGH POINT COLLEGE

Who by their interest and faith in the fundamental goodness of human nature and their belief that this could be developed best by directed physical, mental, and moral training, and who by their patient, self-sacrificing zeal and efforts conceived and finally brought to realization an institution for those purposes, we the grateful students of High Point College dedicate this first edition of the Zenith.

Foreword

SINCE our college is new, precedents must be established. Those who are privileged to share in the making of such precedents occupy a place of great responsibility. Realizing this, we have tried to be very careful to gather together in an attractive, moderately expensive book that material which represents all worthwhile college activities and plays an important part in our life. Due to our inexperience, the work has been doubly hard, and the results may not satisfy our ambitions. We do not expect this to be the best annual High Point College will produce. Indeed, we ardently desire that our successors may be infinitely more successful. However, we sincerely hope that this first volume of the Zenith will keep forever in your minds happy memories of college associations and endear you more than ever to Alma Mater.

College Song

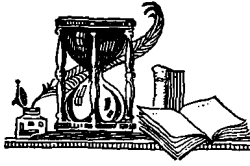

Words and Music by
DOROTHY HOSKINS and MARGARET GURLEY

*In our hearts we'll hold the mem'ry
Of a place we love the best;
O'er it waves a purple banner,
Emblem of its fearlessness.*

CHORUS

*We praise thy name, and thy honor true,
They stand for loyalty and love;
May yours be fame, that to you is due,
For you we'll always fight.
We want the right
To uphold thy standard high;
To give the best we have to thee,
Mem'ries of you we will cherish, H. P. C.*

*When we're on the field of battle,
When we strive for praise to thee;
May our teams be undefeated,
Ours the crown of victory.*

History of High Point College

HIGH POINT COLLEGE had its beginning in the mind of Rev. J. F. McCulloch, a native of Guilford County, North Carolina, and a graduate of Adrian College, Adrian, Michigan. After his graduation, Dr. McCulloch taught for a few years and then returned to North Carolina with the conviction that the North Carolina Conference should establish within her borders a high-grade college. With this purpose in mind he attended the Annual Conference at LaGrange in 1893, and so well did he present his desire that a Committee on Ways and Means was appointed to investigate and if possible to provide means for building the college. But no sooner did this committee begin its work than it was found that the Church in North Carolina did not feel the need of such an institution. Whereupon, Dr. McCulloch set about to establish a Church paper in order that his views and all college propoganda might be put into the homes of the members of the Methodist Protestant Church. Our Church Record, the name of which was afterwards changed to The Methodist Protestant Herald, was established. A very desirable lot was purchased in Greensboro on South Elm Street, 30x150 feet, for $3,300.00, and a building was erected at a cost of about $4,500.00. Later additions to the building brought the total investment up to $11,381.00. So greatly has this property advanced in value that it is now regarded as worth between $75,000.00 and $100,000.00.

But it was not until after many years of agitation, personal solicitation and many disappointments that the college as an enterprise really began to appear. First, Mr. J. C. Roberts, of Kernersville, N. C., a loyal member of the Methodist Protestant Church, provided in his will a gift of $10,000.00, if the college should be ready to open by 1920; otherwise, the gift was to be used as an invested fund, the interest on which was to be used for educating worthy young men preparing for the ministry. The gift stimulated considerable interest and when the college was finally built the Administration building was named in honor of Mr. Roberts.

It was at the Enfield Annual Conference in 1920 that the next important step was taken. Dr. Andrews, then President of the Conference, recommended in his annual report that unless our people were willing to go forward in the erection of the college we should abandon the cherished hope. The conference was moved to appoint a College Committee, composed of Dr. Andrews, Rev. L. W. Gerringer, and Rev. J. E. Pritchard.

The Nineteen Twenty-seven Zenith who were to visit the churches in the North Carolina district and to put on a campaign for funds for the college. Seeing that at last the Church was interested in the college enterprise Mr. J. Norman Wills, a son and grandson of ministers of the Methodist Protestant Church, himself a loyal and useful layman in the same church, was moved to propose that if the Church in North Carolina would raise in good subscriptions as much as $300,000.00 by the end of the year he would give $100,000.00 towards the enterprise. The campaign was put on and pressed most vigorously. The time for raising the total amount was extended by Mr. Wills but business conditions in the State becoming less prosperous than formerly, when the campaign closed, only $241,000.00 was secured. However, with this assurance of success, the Board of Education of North Carolina decided to go forward. And a challenge was sent to several cities in the Piedmont section that if an acceptable site and $100,000.00 should be offered the Committee it would consider the location of the college in that city. Burlington, Greensboro, and High Point all met the condition but the High Point site was chosen.

A Building Committee consisting of Dr. F. R. Harris, Dr. J. F. McCulloch, Dr. R. M. Andrews, Mr. R. F. Williams, Mr. J. Norman Wills, Mr. R. H. Brooks, and Mr. J. S. Pickett was appointed. Mr. Herbert B. Hunter was engaged as Architect, and he, with Mr. J. Norman Wills and Dr. Andrews visited a number of colleges and universities and after thorough investigation recommended to the committee that the Colonial style of architecture be chosen.

Plans were drawn and work proceeded on the erection of the buildings without much delay. The cornerstone of Roberts Hall was laid June 29th, 1922; the building was completed during the Fall of that year. McCulloch Hall, a dormitory for boys, and Woman's Hall, a dormitory for girls, were not completed until about the middle of September, 1924. College was opened September 15th of this year. Work was begun with two college classes. There were fifteen members in the Sophomore Class, ninety-nine in the Freshman Class, and twenty in the preparatory department. This department was discontinued at the close of the second year. The total enrollment for 1925 exceeded 200 and the present number enrolled is larger. The total value of the property, consisting of buildings, grounds, and equipment is greatly in excess of $500,000.00.

Our President, DR. R. M. ANDREWS

President Robert M. Andrews D.D.

LONG before the first brick was placed on our campus, or ever was heard the sound of tool here, Dr. Andrews was pioneering for High Point College. It was under his direction that the forces were organized which led to the creation of this institution. And since the very day of its inception he has given to our college his wisdom, his labors, and his fullest devotion. President Andrews is a scholar of intellectual vigor, a soul of Christian culture, and a spirit of deepest human sympathies. By building, as he is, his noble qualities into the life of the school and into the youthful hearts of the students, his influence becomes a perpetual inspiration to all who feel the power of his personality.

MABEL INEZ BALCH, A.B.

LEAKSVILLE, N. C.

Artemesian Literary Society; Assistant in French and Spanish (2, 3); Treasurer, Artemesian Society (3); Critic, Artemesian Society (4).

Here's to the youngest member of the Senior Class, though not many realize it, due to her dignity and discipline. She has, indeed proved herself to be a number one student. When French and Spanish are mentioned, one's mind almost invariably turns to Mabel. She has that remarkable quality of being able to impart knowledge, and should make a wonderful success as a teacher. At heart, she is kind, willing, and sympathetic, and if once a friend, always. She is the kind who had rather be found out than heard, but we are told that "still waters run deep." Who knows what unseen qualities she possesses? Her unusual love of nature and travel makes her an interesting conversationalist. May happiness and success accompany her always.

ETHEL VIRGINIA BLACKWELDER, A.B.

CONCORD, N. C.

Nikanthan Literary Society; President, Student Government (2); Choral Society (2); Aeolian Choir (4);
Christian Endeavor (2, 4).

Just one look into Ethel's big eyes tells anyone that she is "a friend in need and a friend indeed." In the two years that Ethel has been with us she has won our hearts. She has a big heart, and when we need a mother's comfort and a mother's advice we always go to Ethel. Most everyone calls her "Mamma," not because of her age, but because of her personality.

She wander'st the wide world about,
Unchecked by pride or scrupulous doubt,
With friends to greet her, or without,
 Yet pleased and willing;
Meek, yielding to the occasion's call,
And if necessary suffering for all
Her function apostolical
 In peace fulfilling.

REBECCA MAY FRAZIER, A.B.
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Artemesian Literary Society; Secretary Sophomore Class (2); Critic, Artemesian Society (2); President, Artemesian Society, (3); Editor-in-Chief, "Zenith" (4).

The pen writes with such remarkable ease in recording her character, deeds, and thoughts that brakes must be applied to counteract the tendency toward acceleration. Those who have not had the pleasure of knowing May have missed a rare privilege. She is a lover of ideals and constantly strives to attain them. She does well any task, for May is the kind of a girl who has a conscience that is in good working order. Her knowledge is broad, as she has drunk deep of the Pierian Springs. But with all these traits, "mirabile dictu," she remains a sweet, modest, amiable girl whom everybody loves and esteems. If true worth and honest purpose count for aught in this world, she will ascend to the very eminence of success in anything she undertakes.

ALMA CLEO HARRELL, A.B.

EAST BEND, N. C.

Nikanthan Literary Society; Class Treasurer (4); Paracelsus Scientific Society (3, 4).

In Cleo we have the quietest member of the Senior Class. She is that type of girl whom we can not help admiring for her gentle nature and pleasing disposition. Cleo could hardly be termed really solitary, for, although a nervous energy prevents her from desiring to participate with the crowd, she will not consent to be alone. No one was ever more lasting in affection than Cleo for those whom she comes to love. Selfishness has no part in her life. Thoughtfulness for others, and a conscientious spirit attract us all to seek her company.

An industrious mind has led Cleo to seek a way that is considered too hard by many of us. Her slogan is "Math" and Home Economics. Such a person is sure to win the best that life offers.

JEWEL BERTICE HUGHES, B.M.

RANDLEMAN, N. C.

Artemesian Literary Society; Christian Endeavor (3, 4); Treasurer, Dramatic Club (4); "Hi-Po" Reporter (4); President Artemesian Society (4); Theta Phi.

Jewel is a pearl beyond price. Since she came to us last year we have been realizing this more and more. Demure at a distance, upon closer acquaintance we find that the gods have bestowed on her that priceless possession that they give to comparatively few—a subtle sense of humor. Jewel is endowed with winsome ways and a unique personality. Her disposition is one of the sweetest and she is attractive in every sense of the word. To see her is not to know her, but to know her is to love her. To many people she is quiet but she can make a piano talk. We take great pride in introducing our first B.M. student at High Point College.

CALLIE EUNICE ISLEY, A.B.

BURLINGTON, N. C.

Artemesian Literary Society; Assistant Librarian (2, 4); Choral Society (2); Christian Endeavor Society (2, 4); Alamance County Club (2, 4); Head Proctor (2); Dramatic Club (4); Aeolian Choir (4).

Callie's ambition and determination cannot be measured by her size. She is dignified, quiet, precise, and studious, but finds time to show her friends the agreeable and talkative side of her nature. Callie is finishing college in three years, and in this short time has completed more courses than many students of four years college training. Her idol is truly an Idol; often she feels that her life work will be the same as that of her adored teacher. One week she is enthusiastic about teaching kindergarten, and the next week her interest is in home economics. Whatever she may teach we are sure she will succeed. Callie tells us she belongs to the tribe of manhaters, but she will have to prove it to us. Even manhaters love and are loved at times.

FLORA POMONA JOHNSON, A.B.

GIBSONVILLE, N. C.

Nikanthan Literary Society; Alamance County Club, (2, 3, 4); Christian Endeavor (2, 3, 4); Secretary Student Government (2); Vice-President Class (2); Class Secretary (3); Choral Society (2); President Student Government (4).

Although quiet and a diligent worker, Pomona is one of the foremost of the class. Her unassuming manner tends to fool one into believing that she sees only the serious side of life; but in reality, she is a rare combination of gentle dignity and genial good humor. She will never torment her friends with a recital of her triumphs and troubles, but is always a patient listener to those who so impose upon her, rejoicing with them in their joy, or sorrowing with them in their sorrows. As a result she makes many friends and loses none. They say that "boys and books don't mix," but "Pony" has managed to combine a successful college career with a more than successful love affair. Her friends wish her the realization of her highest ambitions.

MARGARET EMMA PERRY, A.B.

THOMASVILLE, N. C.

Nikanthan Literary Society; Secretary High Court (2); Vice-President Class (3); Secretary Class (4); Aeolian Choir (4); Dramatic Club (4); Joke Editor "Zenith" (4); President Nikanthan Society (4).

Margaret, our "Red," has been a valuable asset to her class and to her college. When she came to us in '24, the loss to Greensboro college was our gain. "Red," is popular enough for various reasons, but perhaps we like her best for her good cheer and smiles. Her loyalty and fine spirit of co-operation have won for her various honors. In spite of her devotion to "Jimmie," she has found time to make a successful society president and to earn commendable grades. We understand that "Red" expects to teach next year, and doubtless her success as a teacher will help to establish for her Alma Mater a good name. We hope that she will not surrender completely to Cupid for a while.

EMMA LEWIS WHITAKER, A.B.

TOBACCOVILLE, N. C.

Nikanthan Literary Society; Critic, Artemesian Society (2); Editor "Torch" (2); Society Editor "Hi-Po" (4); Business Manager "Zenith" (4).

Here's a girl who says what she thinks and means what she says. She is a natural-born worker, and puts her whole soul into what she undertakes to do. Since she has a splendid mind, she studies when she wants to and "dupes" the professors the rest of the time. Leadership is a quality that she possesses in abundance. Loyal, dependable, and full of energy is Emma Lewis. Where she is, there pep is also. Not only is she game for anything but she is good at everything. She is capable of accomplishing much. Although few people know her ambition, everybody is sure that she has one, and our class would not be complete without her.

EUGENIA FLAY WILLIAMS, A.B.

BURLINGTON, N. C.

Artemesian Literary Society; President Artemesian Society (2); Treasurer Choral Society (2); Vice-President Alamaance Club (2); Christian Endeavor (2, 3, 4); Secretary, Treasurer, Cheering One Hundred (4); President Woman's Student Council (3); Theta Phi (4).

Brown curls, dancing brown eyes, winsome disposition, lovable smile, charming personality—That's not an exaggeration. It is our "Gene." "Gene" is a fine combination of true nobility, true likability, and true reliability. Even though we cannot say what her ambition is today, nor can we predict it for the future, we know "Gene" is capable of attaining any goal she may desire. She may be a foreign missionary or she may turn her attention to less serious pursuits. We wonder who will take the place of High Point College's bundle of sunshine as she goes forth to cast her rays in Korea.

HERMAN EARLE COBLE, A.B.

BURLINGTON, N. C.

Thalean Literary Society; President Thalean Society (2); President Alamance Club (2); President Class (2, 4); President Christian Endeavor (4); Critic, Thalean Society (4); Assistant Editor "Zenith" (4).

"H. E. C." as this young man is best known among campus circles, has won a host of friends by his high intellectual powers, by his genial nature, and by his unconscious portrayal of sterling qualities of character. His originality and strong personality are characteristic traits of his college career. In the classroom he has proved true to his objectives. His love and talents for Christian work have been shown in his efforts in the Christian Endeavor Society. His activities in other organizations, the Literary Society most noticeable, prove his punctuality, his debating qualities, and his general usefulness. With service as his motto, and Dean Lindley as his ideal, we know the world will be much benefited because we will have lived in it.

OVANDA COLUMBUS LOY, A.B.

BURLINGTON, N. C.

"Kopo"; Ministerial Association (2, 3, 4); Class Treasurer (3).

"Lum" is of the philosophical type, silent but given to deep meditation. At a moment when others are showing signs of excitement in classroom or chapel, this young scholar is resting on his calm, fearless foundation of thought. Yet when a matter of Ethics or Metaphysics is to be handled young Loy is on the job with his philosophic dissecting set. His analysis of deep subjects is clear and the expositions satisfying. But, best of all, "Lum" is fully disposed to use this good thinking for the benefit of others. Already his productive intellect is being felt in religious leadership, and we predict for him an eminent career along the pioneer roads of the Thought World.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY LOY, A.B.
BURLINGTON, N. C.

"Kopo"; Ministerial Association (2, 3, 4); Class President (3); Class Historian (4).

"Bill" Loy's chief trait is determination. It was this element that brought him up through farm and factory into the charm of self-mastery and to the summits of scholastic fame. Loy is one of those rare and worthy students who has "won his spurs" outside the classroom as well as in. He impresses us as an ardent disciple of the Great Out-of-doors, and, like Emerson, he goes to the "God of the woods to bring His Word to men." Yet "Bill" is a real fellow! Always a friend, jolly and kind, he brings good cheer to our ranks. And out of a wise heart he lends support to all worthy enterprises of the college cause. Perhaps we shall always think of him, our Class Historian, as the epitome of college life, as through the years he reflects honor on our Alma Mater.

Class Poem

*Four long years of work and grind
And our goal it shall be won;
Our childhood days we've left behind,
Our college days begun.*

*One year so soon it slipped by,
With work and joy and glee;
As sophomores then our work did ply
Together industriously.*

*Other years have quickly sped,
We reached the senior's state;
This path we gladly tread
Until we graduate.*

*Now comes the time we'd thought the end,
The beginning, though, we find;
Our energies we gladly bend,
No longer call it grind.*

EMMA LEWIS WHITAKER, Poet.

Class History

HE Senior Class of 1927, the initial class of High Point College, is a synthetic creation, a conglomeration. Each member was rocked in the cradle of another institution, and was representative of respective Freshman Classes in seven different colleges of this state and Virginia. If there is any inherent value in variety, this class is intrinsically superior. H. E. Coble came from Wake Forest; Cleo Harrell from Salem; Eugenia Williams from Shenandoah; Margaret Perry from Greensboro College for Women; Pomona Johnson and Mabel Balch from Guilford; May Frazier and Emma Lewis Whitaker from North Carolina College for Women; Ethel Blackwelder, Jewel Hughes, Callie Isley, O. C. Loy, and W. M. Loy from Elon. Each "had elsewhere its setting and cometh from afar."

When High Point College opened her doors for the first time, in the Fall of 1924, thirteen ex-Freshmen were greeted by incompletd dormitories, seventeen days of continuous rain, and mud of a depth and nature rarely experienced. The environment was very conducive to devolution. Turtles and crawfish would have been the natural consequence of the process. However, fate was kind and all have survived. Rain still occasionally comes, but the evolutionary growth of the college has eliminated the other named conditions. Each year of our stay has become more pleasant. A more comfortable, wholesome, and congenial atmosphere can hardly be found among the institutions of this nature in the South.

As stated, the Class of '27 started on its academic journey with "unlucky" thirteen members, and its ultimate destination is approached by the same. Two members have been lost while an equal addition has been made, thus maintaining the inauspicious number "thirteen." The principle deduced from the clinging mud of '24 seems to have become a coercive, dominating force in the lives of the individual members. Tenacity and determination characterize the class as a whole. Almost every member has climbed to his present heights in the academic realm through the most adverse conditions. Some members have had outside duties sufficient to debilitate the man of average powers.

Few classes have ever experienced a more absolute freedom. There have been no upper-classmen to dictate nor to advise; our unquestioned liberty has not been curbed by traditions; but at all times we have been governed by conclusions drawn from our own deliberations. Unbiased and unprejudiced we have stood and acted.

With this air of freedom we have at all times had a consciousness of our responsibility as the first class. The establishment of precedence has been strenuously avoided that classes who follow may be left to the dictates of future light.

W. M. LOY, Historian.

Senior Prophecy

SUPERNATURAL revelations have long ago ceased to exist. The sibyls are in their caves no longer, and the long-whiskered prophet too has disappeared. There remains, however, one means of prophecy that cannot fail of fulfillment, and so, I, the prophet, through the inspiration of three years of association with these eager minds predict the outcome of their lives after they have left the memorable halls of High Point College. By the manner of their work here, I shall foretell the work of their future.

For three long years I have been a day dreamer and a night prowler on the campus. By associating with the Class of '27, I have been able to learn some of the faults, habits, and experiences of the individual members. Guided by the information of the past I have been called from the daily grind of the present and have been shown bright worlds of the future where crowns and honors have been won, all by the class of '27.

Bill Loy will complete his course at Westminster Theological Seminary and become pastor of Grace Church, Greensboro, where he will bitterly denounce class prejudices, knickers for both boys and girls, and "bootlegging." When he chooses to come back to his Alma Mater, his time will be spent with his brother, O. C. Loy, who will have become professor of Religious Education. Bill will insist on discussing the merits and demerits of Chevrolets while O. C., deeply concerned with the "inheritance of acquired characteristics," will contend that his children cannot possibly inherit the characteristics of marrying while in college.

May Frazier will receive her M.A. degree at Columbia University, and travel with the Red-path Chautauqua, lecturing on the "Art of Self-Culture." Later she will reside in a nearby city where she will divide her time between home duties and part-time instructor of English at a well-known college.

Margaret Perry will teach "gym" in High Point High School, of which her husband will be principal.

Mabel Balch will complete a course in Romance Languages at the University of Paris, and return to America to become head of the language department at a North Carolina college.

Emma Lewis Whitaker will become Society Editor for the Baltimore Sun, but will realize later that politics is her calling and run for Congress in the Fifth District. She will be assisted in her campaign by Callie Isley who will have great influence because of her position as supervisor of education in Alamance County.

A glimpse of the diamond on Pomona Johnson's hand is sufficient to forecast her future.

Jewel Hughes will become pianist for the Chicago Concert Company, until she gives up this career for an intensive course in Home Economics.

Ethel Blackwelder will engage in Social Service work for several years, and after acquiring enough dignity will succeed Miss Young as Dean of Women at High Point College.

Herman Coble, our president, with his fine qualities of leadership, will become governor of Texas and probably rise to even greater positions.

Cleo Harrell will teach Home Economics in Spray High School and later become Matron in a reformatory for boys.

Alas, the curtain of my brain is falling. I cannot see any more. My own future remains closed behind it. But what does it matter? Destiny will deal with me as it sees fit.

EUGENIA WILLIAMS, Prophet.

Last Will and Testament

State of North Carolina, County of Guilford.

WE, the class of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-seven, being of a sound mind, memory, and understanding, and being cognizant of the irregularity and pitfalls of this earthly existence, do make and declare this, our last Will and Testament, hereby declaring void any and all Wills heretofore executed by us. As to such estates as the fates have allowed us to accumulate, we make the following disposition, viz.:

SECTION I

Article I. We desire that our executor, hereinafter named, see that our funeral services be directed in accordance with the wishes of our friends and relatives, pay all funeral expenses, together with our just debts, including society dues, library fines, book store bills, and laboratory fees. The aforesaid debts shall be paid out of the first money belonging to our estate which may come into his hands.

Article II. We give and bequeath to the Dean of Women the privilege of giving social hour at any time she wishes, provided it is not too often, and hoping that she may break up many forlorn love affairs.

SECTION II

Article I. To the class of '28 we give and bequeath all our senior privileges, particularly our privilege of honor dates once a week, those taken as well as given, hoping that they may ascertain what these privileges are and not abuse them.

Article II. To the Sophomore class we will our beauty and attractiveness, including curling irons, compacts, and other aids to the aforesaid beauty and attractiveness.

Article III. We give to the Freshman class our excess knowledge, hoping they will make better use of it than we have.

SECTION III

Article I. May Frazier wills her dignity to Helen Hayes, Virginia Pickens and Louise Holmes, the said characteristic to be used as the common property of the aforesaid parties.

Article II. Pomona Johnson bequeaths her successful love affair to Lois Coble, who will have the same right to become engaged while in college, the fates to the contrary notwithstanding.

Article III. Red Perry wills and bequeaths to Effie Keck her golden locks to be used to induce those who enter the beauty parlor to desire the "eaten crop."

Article IV. Mable Balch willingly bequeaths her knowledge of French to Vista Dixon.

Article V. Gene Williams, after due consideration, wills a leather bound volume on "How to Be Pretty" to the one who needs it most, hoping this person will study the contents as she has done.

Article VI. To Pauline Hicks is given the perseverance of Ethel Blackwelder, hoping the same will be cultivated.

Article VII. Cleo Harrell wills and bequeaths to Elizabeth Nicholson her stored up knowledge of Home Economics.

Article VIII. Herman Coble wills his originality to Pat Paschall.

Article IX. To Nick Sides and Dwight Hearne, Bill and O. C. Loy will their privilege of getting married during their college career.

Article X. Emma Lewis Whitaker wills and bequeaths her subscription to the Hi-Po to Louise Adams.

Article XI. To Loraine Ellison, Callie Isley bequeaths her friendly disposition and unselfish ways.

Article XII. Jewel Hughes' musical talent and accomplishment are hereby willed to Annie Lee Jarrell with the desire that she may use such gifts wisely.

And we do hereby appoint and constitute Captain Rankin sole executor of this, our last Will and Testament.

In witness whereof, we, the Class of Twenty-seven, the testators, have to this our will set our hands and seal this, the 24th day of May, Anno Domini, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven.

SENIORS AND THEIR MASCOT

Farewell!!!

E, the members of the first graduating class of High Point College, close our career as students with sorrowful joy. Our hearts are grieved that we must leave these scenes made dear by pleasures and cares alike, and yet, we rejoice over the prospects of the future made bright because of our stay here. The world changes and if we progress we must adapt ourselves to new conditions. This is the test of true living. We feel more humbly capable of meeting life than we did when we entered these now almost sacred doors, thanks to every phase of our association here. In parting we wish to say farewell to our professors, farewell to our friends, farewell to these buildings, farewell to each other. And again we say, Farewell!

Search for Knowledge

NCE upon a time a company of jolly Juniors left their Holmes to wander over Hills and Brooks in search of the Tree of Knowledge. They went along singing Carrolls which goes to show what a jolly crowd they were. They stopped a Wagoner to buy some Cates and Lemons.

"Let's get some Redwine," said Percy Paschall.

"No!" protested Roy Bethune, "That's against the Rule."

They stopped by the Sides of the road and ate their lunch. Lillian Buckner sat down Andrew a picture.

"How do you like that, Jimmy Rogers?"

"Oh, it Suits me all right."

Just then they came to Madison.

"Hello! Spencer Cutchin Hauser friends?" cried an old man.

"Oh, they're all Livengood except Aileen Hendricks; she nearly died. I thought she would Parrish from Burns. We started to stop but she cried "Ad Vance." So we went on but we had to sleep in Hayes and fields many times."

"Let's go on," said Ptylla Bingham whose thirst for knowledge was exceedingly great, "or the Snipes will get us, and of all the birds I know, they scare me most."

So on they went, always jolly in all kinds of trouble, until they reached their destination. Then and there all forty-six of them tried to climb the Tree of Knowledge at the same time.

"What are you trying to do, Jim Ellington—pull the tree up by the roots?"

"Forsooth, what are you Kecking about? Do you want all the knowledge?" cried Jim, and he went on climbing frantically.

All of a sudden, Crash! Down went the Tree of Knowledge with a force that shook the earth, and with it went forty-six jolly Juniors still jolly as ever.

"Hey! What's the trouble?" cried a farmer.

"Oh! We were just Picken knowledge off the tree, but we've found that it's better to dig for it," cried Bill Ragan, and forthwith he and all the jolly Juniors set to work to dig for knowledge.

History of the Junior Class

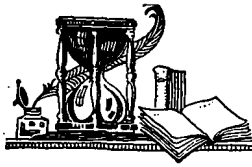

IN September, 1924, seventy-four quaking Freshmen with anxious countenances entered the portals of High Point College and began their quest for knowledge. Little did they heed the mud which was vainly striving to cover a part of their greenness on that memorable day. Where they floundered around in mud ankle-deep, future students will stroll down shady walks bordered with flowers.

On this, the first Freshman class of High Point College, rested the responsibility of making traditions for all the future classes. The Class of '28 was the first to plan a memorial for the college; it was a gate which was to be erected during the Junior year. This first year we Freshmen were represented in all phases of college activity, both in athletic and literary achievements.

The year 1925 witnessed a marked change in the one-time Freshmen. Gone were those timid, cringing creatures, and in their places stood worldly-wise, self-assured Sophomores. With a haughty manner they watched the Freshmen as the latter blundered into forbidden places, little realizing the consequences of their folly. The task of the Sophomores was to raise money for the gate. The class gamely experimented with every available means for raising money, anything from selling peanuts and sandwiches to giving dramatic entertainments.

The year 1926 ushered in the Juniors who viewed with a kind of condescension the vain attempts of the Sophomores to exert their longed-for authority. The Juniors immediately began to cast about for means to make money for the gate. The proceeds from several plays proved their ability as financiers. We hope that by next Spring the gate will adorn the campus of High Point College and stand as a fitting memorial to the Class of '28.

Class Song

*We raise high our voices in song,
The greatest of tribute we bring;
To the Class that we love so well
We will now joyously sing.
We love Thee, dear faithful Band,
Pressing onward toward our motto,
We'll forever be loyal and true.*

CHORUS

*Oh, dear Class of White and Gold,
With Thy truth our lives entwine
And we'll give praise and honor,
To the Class of 'Twenty-nine.*

*We'll cherish the friendships we made,
In obedience to Thy command;
To give our power and talents
To make one unbroken Band.
We remember, dear Alma Mater,
How we did struggle in Thy care
To master the great lessons
Of our Class, and Thee, so fair.*

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY

Christian Endeavor Society

ONE of the most active organizations on the campus is the Christian Endeavor Society. The very first Sunday evening after the college opened, a Christian Endeavor prayer meeting was held in the auditorium of Robert's Hall. On October 12, 1924, the society was definitely organized for work under the able leadership of young people from church societies of many sections of the state. It has since become a very necessary part of the life of the students who soon learned to work together as one unit "For Christ and the Church."

Since the organization of the society, regular week'y prayer meetings have been held practically every Sunday evening during the college year. The society has been of great benefit to each individual student and of real worth to the college as a whole. Through the meetings, students have learned to think more about their souls, their life work, and individual problems, as well as about national and work problems. They have learned each other better, and have been drawn in close fellowship with the Master more by the Christian Endeavor Society than by any other student organization.

From the beginning of the second college year the Christian Endeavor Society has had full charge of the Sunday evening religious services. The meetings are well attended, as all are assured that they will receive real benefit from the service. Usually a speaker is secured to talk after the programs.

Not only have the Christian Endeavorers been interested in the religious side of life, but also in the social side, for Christian Endeavor is not a one-sided affair. Well planned socials have been given at intervals.

Broadmindedness is another characteristic that can be applied to our society as well as to all others in the state, we believe. We have taken part in city union activities and foreign and home missions. Though not definitely connected with any particular church we have done much for churches throughout the state. The members of the society have gone back to their homes and organized societies. There is also a regular extension group sent out for this purpose.

The Christian Endeavor Society is the most representative organization of the college. Practically all the boarding students are members. Students from all classes take part in the meetings and everybody feels that it is his society. Ideas have been brought together from all parts of the state and even from other states. A fine spirit of co-operation has developed and much has been accomplished. We are glad to be a part of the world-wide organization of Christian Endeavor, and look forward to years of activity in which we hope to be able to increase greatly the cause of the Great Master, whom we are earnestly trying to serve.

AKROTIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

Akrothian Literary Society

HE Akrothian Literary Society was organized the latter part of May, 1926. Previous to the organization of this society, there was one other for boys functioning on the campus. The charter members of the new organization were:

- PERCY M. PASCHALL President
 FRED T. HAUSER Vice-President
 JOHN R. PERRY Secretary
 R. BRUCE YOKELY Treasurer
 W. H. HUNTER, JR. Marshal

ADAM S. HUNT DALLAS C. RATHBONE
 FLOYD G. LITTLE

PROF. P. S. KENNETT, Faculty Adviser
 PROF. T. C. JOHNSON, Honorary Member

We selected the name "Akrothian," meaning "Highest Point," from a group of Greek letters supplied by Mrs. White, the professor of Greek. Our motto is: "Find a way or make one," the words of the illustrious super-general, Napoleon Bonaparte.

Although our society started with a very small group of young men, the influx of new members has nourished the organization until it has grown far beyond our initial expectations. We started with only eight members, but there are at present enrolled in our society twenty-eight students and two faculty members. The reasons for our growth may be accounted for by the untiring efforts of all members, a fraternal spirit among the boys, an air of congeniality, and the direct results of our meetings. We are very optimistic over the present outlook of our past gains, and can safely predict a prosperous future for the Akrothian Literary Society of High Point College.

In the Spring of 1926, it was decided that the Artemesian Society had grown too large to function satisfactorily. Consequently, by vote of the entire society, the membership was equally divided. Just before the close of school the members of the new society, twenty of them, met and organized themselves under the name of Nikanthans. The organization was not worked out in detail, but a firm foundation was laid.

At the opening of college in the Fall of 1926, thirty-one new members joined the society, making a total of fifty-one members. Besides these, there are six honorary faculty members. After every business session, a short program of some kind is presented, usually being an appreciation program. Much talent has been discovered in the society through the programs presented.

The Nikanthans are a very congenial group of girls and in all cases have proved to work together very harmoniously.

Coach Boylin

HE teams play well. The contests have much support and enthusiasm. Games are won and lost. Spirits are brightened and dampened. This goes on often without a thought of the force which makes it possible. Coach Boylin has worked faithfully with and for High Point College, not only in athletics, but in every other undertaking. Coach seems quiet until one knows him, but that occurs very soon. Though not coming into direct contact through classes and otherwise with most of us, he has a most remarkable capacity of learning people's names and faces. Some of us wonder how he finds out who we insignificant beings are, even sooner than some of our professors.

Coach Boylin has accomplished his greatest work in athletics. High Point College, being new, had no reputation in any line when the doors opened in the fall of 1924. Now our Alma Mater is known in many states. This is due to a great extent to the tireless energy and patience of Coach, who has caused students from all over the United States to come here because of the interest he aroused from his work with our teams. We appreciate and honor him, and we want him to know it.

Our Cheer Leaders

No college without a spirit can successfully exist. College spirit is aroused perhaps more by athletics than by other forces. But this spirit, when it is once alive, spreads to every phase of school life. Charlie Brooks and his co-workers have helped High Point College wonderfully. We have a college spirit here, one of which we are proud. Much credit is due to our faithful cheer leaders for this and for our success in many lines. Lately the "Cheering One Hundred" was organized, which is destined to be an outstanding factor in college life, especially since it is under the guidance of such enthusiastic students as our cheer leaders. Every person connected with High Point College is grateful to them for their work.

Review and Prophecy of High Point College Athletics

PROPHECY has been fulfilled! Looking back two years into the gloom that shrouded High Point College athletics, one sees a path leading out paved with blocks of success, hewn by undying High Point enthusiasm, earnest effort, and loyal co-operation. Two years ago the prophecy was made that the followers of the Purple and White would gaze upon the years of 1925 and 1926, pointing these as landmarks in athletics at High Point College. That prophecy has been fulfilled, for another great year has been added.

Our success during the past year has been marvelous. Our teams have been coached by Jack Boylin; our victories have been High Point College victories. Success inspires optimism. One cannot but see a bright future for the Purple and White in 1927 and 1928, after recalling the achievements of the past year.

In football, the chief sport, High Point carried its flag further abroad, especially in the South, chiefly by conquering Guilford at Greensboro in the first game ever to be played in the new World War Memorial Stadium, and earlier in the season stopping the Little Christians, one of the strongest teams of the Little Five and who had not tasted defeat before during the season.

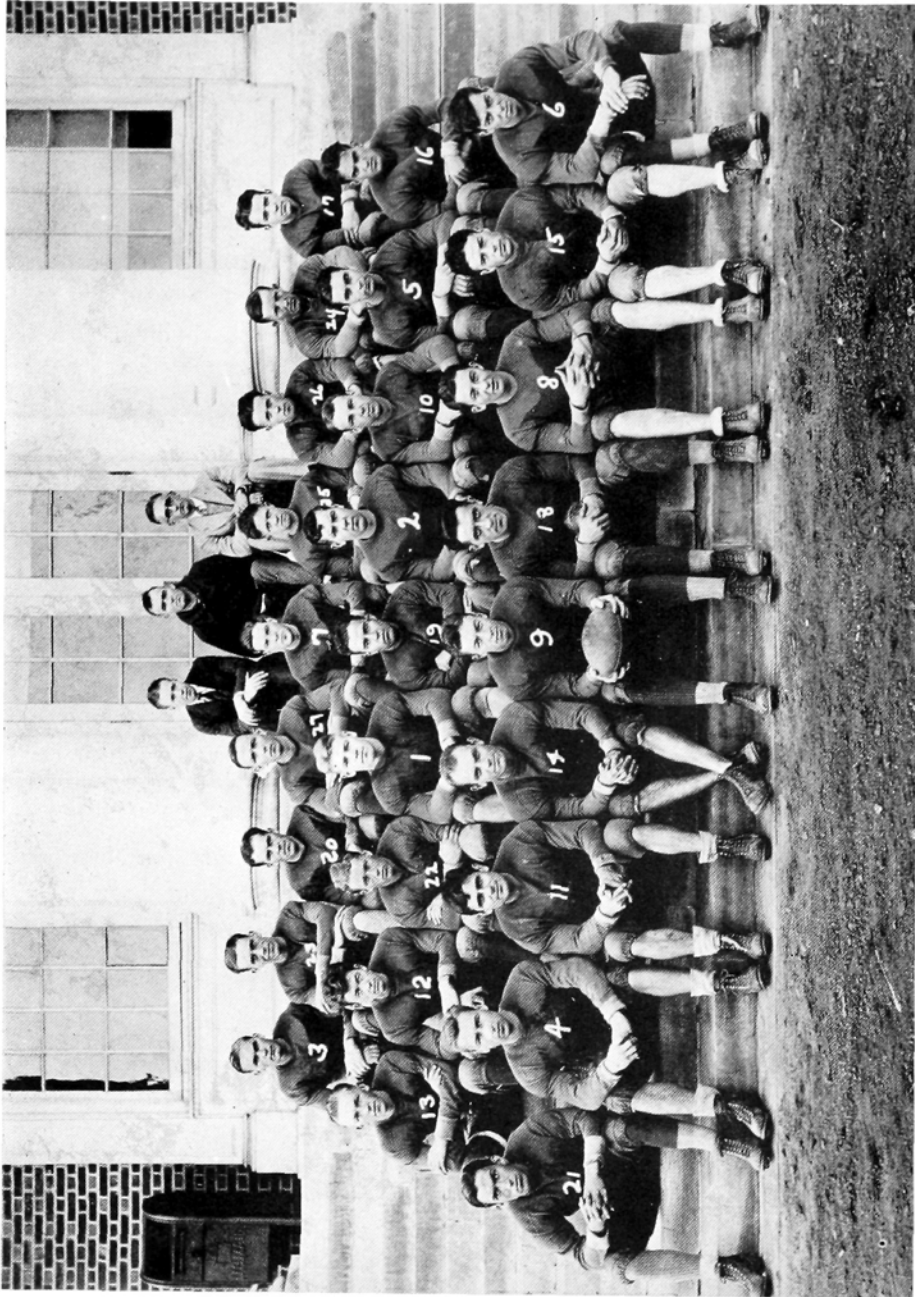

In basketball High Point College more than held its own, playing and defeating teams in both the North and South.

Adhering strictly to the high standards upon which the present athletic system was founded, making athletic standards second only to scholastic standards, and co-operating whole-heartedly with other departments of the institution make athletics worth while at High Point College and mean more to those who participate.

In the success of High Point College athletics is well reflected the consistent progress being made in all of its departments. Each new achievement forms a milestone along the road of progress. The achievement of the 1926-27 seasons makes landmarks of which High Point College may well be proud. High Point College can, must, and will carry on in athletics, as in other things, always the highest and best of collegiate undertakings.

FOOTBALL SQUAD

The 1926 Football Season

NINETEEN TWENTY-SIX stands out as the banner year for football in the three-year history of High Point College.

The King College grid warriors were met for the first time, and the "touchdown-a-minute" team yielded to a scoreless tie. This game was hard-fought throughout, and thus the season opened with a fighting spirit.

For the second game the "Boylinites" met the Lenoir-Rhyne "Mountain Bears." Here the experienced and mighty Spurlock proved too much for the Panthers' less experienced men. Hence Lenoir-Rhyne took the big end of a 29-0 score.

It was down in South Carolina at Paris Island that the Panthers next journeyed, this time to encounter a team composed of former college gridiron stars from all parts of the country. Indeed much credit must be given the Panthers for having held the Marines to 26 points.

A huge crowd of football enthusiasts witnessed the first victory and home game of the season, when the Panthers met the Milligan aggregation.

The splendor of the 13-7 victory was somewhat shaded because of the injuries Hill, McMannis and Rowan received.

The next week the "Little Christians" of A. C. C. came to High Point for their first defeat. Previous to this game they had not been defeated, nor had their goal line been crossed. On a trick play, Mulligan, substitute quarterback, scored a 7 for H. P. C., by making a touchdown.

The thrill of the season was when Guilford and High Point clashed on November 11. The two great rivals met in the new World War Memorial Stadium in Greensboro for the first game ever played there. Approximately five thousand people witnessed this battle, and High Point College won her first victory over Guilford in the 7-3 score.

The season hastened to an end after this hard-fought Guilford game. Atlantic Christian College had challenged the Panthers to a game to be played in Wilson. The Panthers had accepted, and in the hardest-fought gridiron battle ever seen in Wilson, the "Little Christians" were prevented gaining their hope for a touchdown—0-0 was the story of the battle.

An efficient coach, a fighting spirit, a winning spirit—ended High Point College's greatest football season.

Baseball Prophecy, 1927

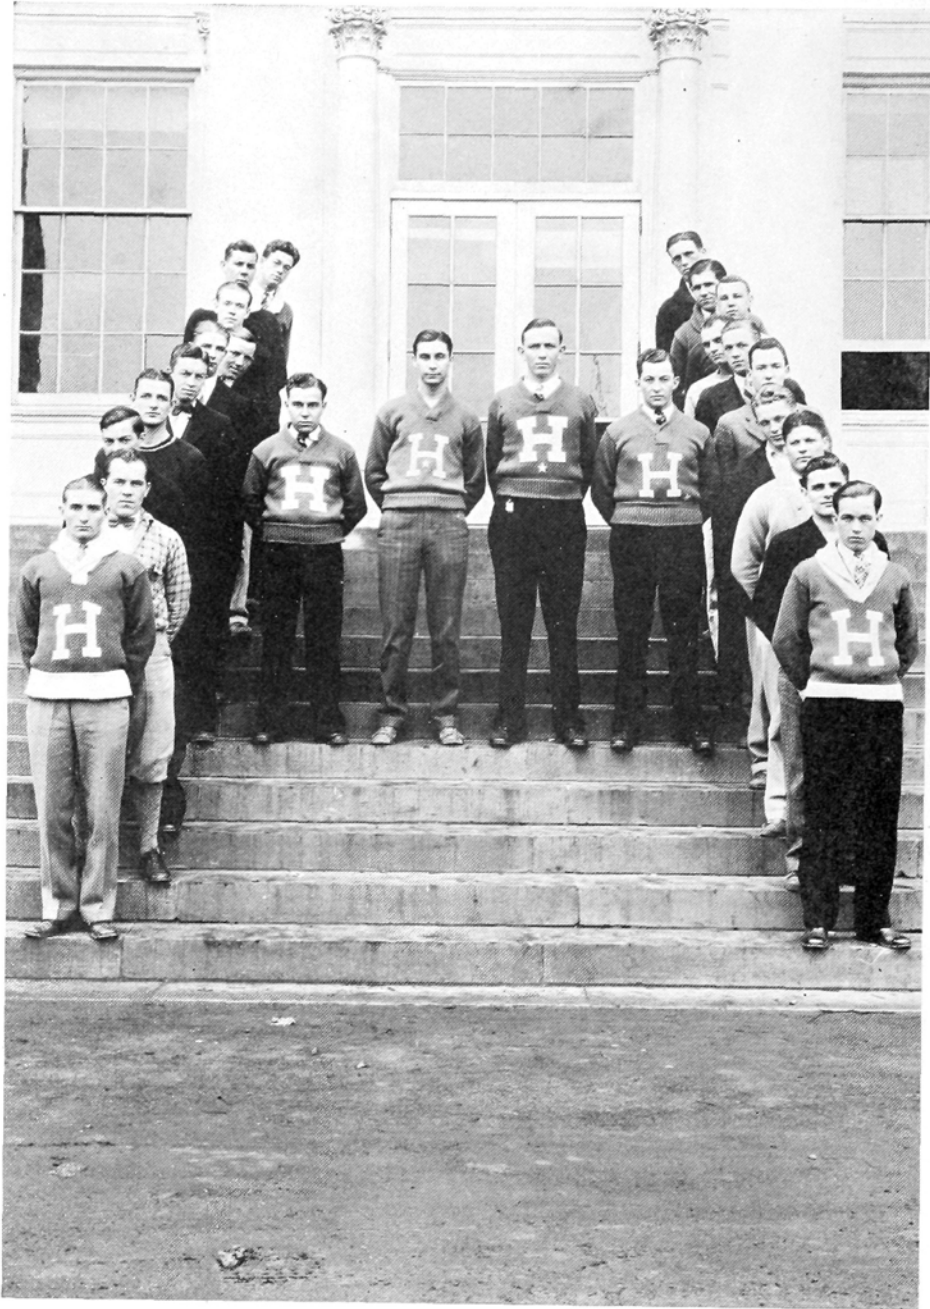

While the season has not yet begun, with many of our old men back and a good supply of new material, High Point College will have one of the strongest diamond outfits of the Little Five. We include in our schedule this year some of the outstanding teams in the state and also some aggressive ones in South Carolina and Georgia. The student body pledges to coach and to the team its support.

FEATURES

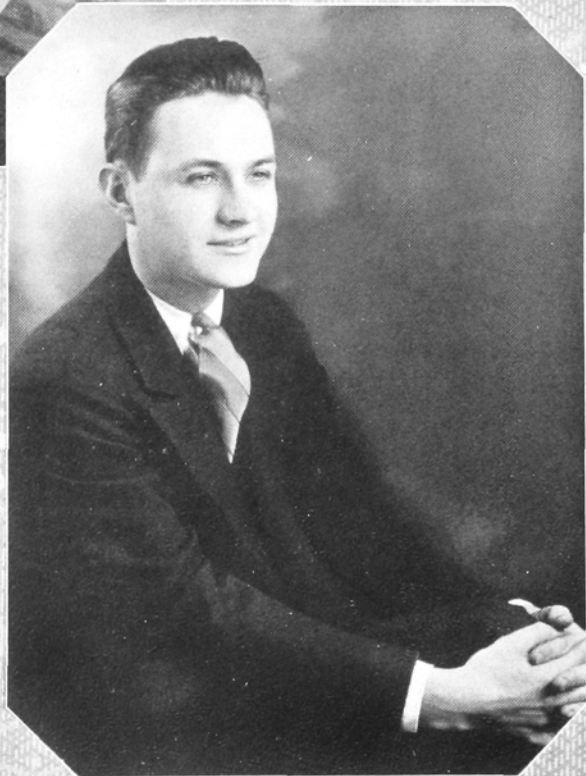

*They stand out superior,
Have loyal hearts and true;
And with their many talents,
They bless and serve us, too.*

*Their graces are excelling,
As were they sent from Heaven;
And we'll always hold in memory,
Our Types of Twenty-seven.*

Jokes

Ptylla: "John, this theater is burning up."
John Perry Dosier: "We should worry.
We've seen almost all the show."

* * *

"Does she ever walk home from rides?"
"No, but sometimes she rides home from walks."

* * *

Mr. Johnson: "This is the fourth morning you've been late, Rogers."

Rogers: "Yes, sir, I overslept myself, sir."

Mr. Johnson: "Do you have a clock?"

Rogers: "Yes, sir."

Mr. Johnson: "Don't you wind it up?"

Rogers: "Oh, yes, yes; I wind it up."

Mr. Johnson: "And do you set the alarm?"

Rogers: "Every night, sir."

Mr. Johnson: "But, don't you hear the alarm in the morning, Rogers?"

Rogers: "No, sir; that's the trouble. You see the thing goes off while I am asleep."

* * *

It's fortunate Dad doesn't remember what he paid for his textbooks in college.

* * *

"Who is the fellow Tide I hear about so much?"

"I never heard of him."

"Why, I've heard everyone saying 'Hi
Tide, and 'Lo Tide.'"

"I feel like the oldest man in the world."
"Why, there's nothing the matter, is there?"
"No, but I've just been listening to a sixteen-year-old Freshman tell about things he used to do when he was a kid."

* * *

Pat: "Do you know that girl?"

Joe: "Wait till I see if she matches this powder on my coat sleeve."

* * *

Jewel: "I think he is a poet."

Louise H.: "How can you tell?"

Jewel: "Don't you see the lines on his face?"

* * *

They put bridges on violins to get the music across.

* * *

Just think! If it were not for journalism we wouldn't know what a rotten world we're living in.

* * *

Charles Robbins: "Do you know Wendy?"

Cotton: "Wendy who?"

Charles: "Wendy we eat?"

* * *

"Say, could you tell me how I can find the chemistry building?"

"Sure. Ask somebody."

Jokes

"A college town is certainly dead during Christmas."

"Yes, it has all the sap taken out of it."

* * *

Ho: "Did you go to college?"

Bo: "Naw, me mudder wanted to gimme a fair start in life."

* * *

Mr. Johnson: "Max, what does that first part of your name stand for?"

M. Parrish: "I'll bite, professor."

Mr. Johnson: "I think it must be Maximum Clamor, which when translated is Greatest Noise."

* * *

The Hi-Po: "The present Senior Class came to this college without reputation."

* * *

Effie: "Don't you speak to him any more?"

Bessie: "No. Whenever I pass him I give him the geological survey."

Effie: "Geological survey?"

Bessie: "Yes, that's what's commonly known as the stony stare."

* * *

Mr. Jones: "Blanco, lift up your feet."

Blanco: "Hush yo' mouth, fool, I goes to college."

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care.
Fit it with hasp and padlock
And put all your troubles there;
Hide therein all your failures
And each bitter sip you quaff,
Lock all your heartaches within it,
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
